

THE PREM RAWAT FOUNDATION
Peace Education Program
License Agreement

1. This is a license agreement (the “Agreement”) between The Prem Rawat Foundation (“TPRF”) and Peace Education Program Licensee (the “Licensee”).
2. TPRF has developed the Peace Education Program (the “Program” or “PEP”) to help people discover their inner resources and personal peace. Licensee wishes to conduct Peace Education Program courses for groups and organizations.
3. TPRF grants such licenses on a case-by-case basis, and can grant or deny any such license unilaterally and at its own discretion.
4. After Licensee has applied for such license, Licensee will be notified by email whether TPRF has approved the license application. Upon such notification of approval, TPRF grants Licensee:
 - a. Access to obtain TPRF’s Peace Education Program course materials; and
 - b. Permission to use the Program course materials to conduct the Program for groups at each Facility registered under this Agreement.
5. This license is issued by TPRF free of charge (although TPRF welcomes contributions that support the Program) in view of Licensee’s agreement to assume the following obligations and abide by the following conditions:
 - a. Licensee will ensure that all individuals conducting the Program under this license (“Associates”) comply with the terms and conditions of this Agreement.
 - b. Licensee and Associates will use the Program course materials only for the purpose of conducting the Program courses.
 - c. Licensee and Associates will conduct the Program courses in accordance with the guidelines set forth in the Facilitator Guide and any facilitator briefings as they are released.
 - d. Licensee and Associates will ensure that all Program attendees are treated with respect.
 - e. Licensee and Associates will not use the Program materials to promote political or religious views.
 - f. Licensee and Associates will not charge a fee to Program participants for attending the courses or to organizations for hosting the Program without the written permission from a TPRF official.

- g. All Program materials, including but not limited to DVDs, video files, brochures, and online information, are copyrighted material belonging to TPRF. They are only to be used in the context of presenting the Program and are not to be copied, loaned, distributed, or displayed for any other purpose. According to copyright law, no changes to the material can be made, nor can the material be used in another context (including online distribution), without written permission from a TPRF official. No derivative works shall be created, including translations, and Licensee agrees that they have no possessory interest in the Program materials. Licensee shall not upload any Program materials to any online forum or group, social media platform, or otherwise electronically available distribution system without the written permission of TPRF.
 - h. Licensee and Associates will comply with the Program reporting requirements of TPRF as such requirements are defined and as such requirements may be from time to time revised by TPRF.
 - i. Licensee is authorized to use the Program materials that are currently available on the Peace Education Program portal. TPRF reserves the right to add or remove authorized materials at any time. TPRF will promptly inform Licensee of any such changes. Licensee will utilize only currently authorized materials, allowing for a reasonable transition period to complete a course in progress.
 - j. Licensee and Associates will not present themselves as agents, employees, representatives, or spokespersons of TPRF.
 - k. Representatives of the media who approach Licensee or Associates with questions about the Program or TPRF should be referred to mediarelations@tprf.org. TPRF reserves the right to respond to media inquiries.
 - l. TPRF does not accept responsibility, liability, or a duty to defend against any claims of negligence or damages of any kind, including but not limited to data privacy issues, arising from Licensee and Associates conducting the Program.
 - m. Licensee is solely responsible for obtaining any general liability insurance required by a Facility, and for any liability or claims of negligence or damages arising from Licensee and Associates conducting the Program.
6. TPRF reserves the right to terminate this License Agreement at any time, for any reason. Any such termination will be effective immediately upon electronic notification to Licensee. Upon such termination, Licensee will immediately cease to offer or conduct the Program, and will, within 5 working days:
- a. Return all physical Program materials to TPRF;
 - b. Delete all digitally stored Program materials from any and all digital storage devices; and

- c. Acknowledge the deletion of any such materials and the return of materials, the reasonable shipping costs of which will be reimbursed to Licensee by TPRF.
